

Figure 39. The bend in the Conneaut River where Spalding places the cavernous hill from his Stories from Lost Manuscripts Found. Spalding imagines that the ancient fort, like the Temple of Solomon, was built atop a cave containing the golden plates and the wisdom of the ages—a clear allusion to the founding myth of Royal Arch Masonry.